

I. THE PIPE ROLL OF 31 HENRY I (all of these texts are in the Mats., starting on p. III–45, but it may be easier to follow them here. I have made some small changes on the basis of a more recent translation.)

1. Coinage and units used in the Pipe Roll of 31 Henry I

- a. Pound (£) = 20 shillings = 240 pence (pennies) (d)
- b. Shilling (s) = 12 pence
- c. mark (m) = 13 shillings 4 pence (2/3 of a pound = 160 pence)

Warwickshire. Geoffrey de Clinton renders account of 44s. 8d. blanch from the old farm. He has paid it into the treasury. And he is quit.

And the same man renders account of the new farm. In the treasury £100 4s. 4d. by weight. And he owes £32 9s. 4d. blanch.

And the same Geoffrey renders account of 310m. of silver for an office in the treasury at Winchester. In the treasury 100m. of silver. And he owes 210m. of silver.

Osbert of Arden renders account of £10 for a plea [or ‘the pleas’] of William Hubold. In the treasury 40s. And he owes £8.

And the same sheriff renders account of 100s. from old pleas and murders. In pardon by the king’s writ to the earl of Warwick 100s. And he is quit.

William Fitz-Ralph renders account of 113s. 4d. and one war-horse that he may have the land of his father. In the treasury 30s. And he owes £4 3s. 4d. and one war-horse.

Robert Fitz-Ralph renders account of £4 for his portion of his father’s land. In the treasury 20s. And he owes 60s.

Norfolk. Benjamin renders account of £4 5s that he may keep the pleas that belong to the king’s crown. In the treasury 56s 8d. And he owes 28s 4d; and [guarantees] to make a profit of 500m for the king. ...

Yorkshire and Northumberland. Roger de Flamenvilla renders account of 20m silver from pleas of G[oeffrey] de Clinton and his companion at Blyth. ...

And the same sheriff [of Yorkshire, Bertrand de Bulemer] renders account of 31m silver from 9 “judicators” (judicatoribus, perhaps ‘lawmen’ or ‘doomsmen’) of the county from the same pleas.

And the same sheriff renders account of 335m silver, 5s 6d from the lesser judges and jurors of the county (de minutis judicibus et juratoribus comitatus, perhaps ‘small doomsmen and jurors’) from the same pleas. ...

William fitz Rannulf, sheriff (perhaps vicomte, i.e., a Norman title), renders account of 20m silver from the same pleas. ...

William de Albamara renders account of 154m silver from the same pleas from his land of Holderness. ...

Robert Fossard renders account of 10m silver from the same pleas and of 40m silver that he be resealed of his land.

Godereda, daughter of Gospatric son of Aldret, owes 10m silver for right of the land of her father.

Walter Espec renders account of 200m silver from pleas of the stag. In the treasury 50m silver. And he owes £100 pounds. ...

And the same renders account of one gold ring of 5-penny weight from a certain finding. He has paid to the treasury. And he is quit.

Grento of York renders account of 10m silver for a plea of the land of his wife.

Nigel of Doncaster renders account of 20m silver for the forfeiture of his sons who killed a man. In the treasury 5m silver. And he owes 15m silver. ...

William fitz Hugh renders account of 10m silver that he may hold in peace the land of Sulinga. In the treasury £5 [sic this would be 7m 6s and change]. And he owes 4m. ...

Turbert fitz Gamel renders account of 40m [this must be 50] silver that the king might make him have seisin of his land from William de Albamara. In the treasury Pleas of W. Espec and Eustace fitz John ...

The judges and jurors [judices et juratores] of Yorkshire owe £100 that they may no longer be judges and jurors. ...

GLANVILL

1. What are the principal actions concerning land that Glanvill describes?
2. Who seem to be the real parties at interest in those actions?

(p. IV–10): "The king to the sheriff, greeting. Command N. to render to R., justly and without delay, one hide of land in such-and-such a vill, which the said R. complains that the aforesaid N. is withholding from him. If he does not do so, summon him by good summoners to be before me or my justices on the day after the octave of Easter, to show why he has not done so. And have there the summoners and this writ. Witness Rannulf Glanvill, at Clarendon.”

(12.3, p. IV–20, Baker p. 613 (A.i)): “The king to Earl William, greeting. I command you to do full right without delay to N. in respect of ten carucates of land in Middleton which he claims to hold of you by the free service of one hundred shillings a year for all service (or by the free service of one knight’s fee for all service, or by the free service appropriate when twelve carucates make up one knight’s fee for all service; or which he claims as pertaining to his free tenement which he holds of you in the same vill or in Morton by the free service, etc., or by the service, etc.; or which he claims to hold of you as part of the free marriage portion of M. his mother, or in free burgage, or in frankalmoin; or by the free service of accompanying you with two horses in the army of the lord king at your expense for all service; or by the free service of providing you with one crossbowman for forty days in the army of the lord king for all service): which Robert son of William is withholding from him. If you do not do it the sheriff of Devonshire will, that I may hear no further complaint for default of right in this matter. Witness, etc.”

(13.2–12, pp. IV–26): “The king to the sheriff, greeting. If G. son of O. gives you security for prosecuting his claim, then summon by good summoners twelve free and lawful men from the neighbourhood of such-and-such a vill to be before me or my justices on a certain day, ready to declare on oath whether O. the father of the aforesaid G. was seised in his demesne as of his fee of one virgate of land in that vill on the day he died, whether he died after my first coronation, and whether the said G. is his next heir. And meanwhile let them view the land; and you are to see that their names are endorsed on this writ. And summon by good summoners R., who holds that land, to be there then to hear the recognition. And have there the summoners and this writ. Witness, etc.”

(13.32–39, p. IV–31): “The king to the sheriff, greeting. N. has complained to me that R. unjustly and without a judgment has disseised him of his free tenement in such-and-such a vill since my last voyage to Normandy. Therefore I command you that, if N. gives you security for prosecuting his claim, you are to see that the chattels which were taken from the tenement are restored to it, and that the tenement and the chattels remain in peace until the Sunday after Easter. And meanwhile you are to see that the tenement is viewed by twelve free and lawful men of the neighbourhood, and their names endorsed on this writ. And summon them by good summoners to be before me or my justices on the Sunday after Easter, ready to make the recognition. And summon R., or his bailiff if he himself cannot be found, on the security of gage and reliable sureties to be there then to hear the recognition. And have there the summoners, and this writ and the names of the sureties. Witness, etc.”

3. What is the difference between ‘upward-looking’ claims and ‘downward-looking’ claims?
4. Why might a lord bring a downward-looking claim in the central royal courts rather than simply dealing with the matter in his own court?

Glanvill 10.9 (Hall ed., p. 125): “The king to the sheriff, greeting. Command N. to restore, justly and without delay, so much land (or, certain specified land) in such-and-such a vill to R., of a term which is now past, as R. alleges; and to accept payment from him (or, which he alleges he has redeemed by payment). If he does not do so, summon him by good summoners to be before me or my justices at a certain place on a certain day to show why he has not done so. And have there the summoners and this writ. Witness, etc.” This can lead to a recognition whether gage or fee.

5. Why do the lords’ courts regularly default in actions on the writ of right?

Now the only problem is to figure out who was doing what to whom when. Of the numerous cases mentioned or reported, we will focus on three in this class:

6. 10:AssOct98—Hugh de P. one of the knights of the grand assize: “These twelve knights Roger de ‘Ginnes’, Robert de ‘Bounton’, Pain de ‘Stanford’, Hugh de Polstead [and seven others with a space for a name the clerk didn’t get] ... were chosen to make a recognizance between Roes daughter of Roger and Simon de ‘Bures’ tenant about a half a hide of land and fifteen acres of land with appurtenances in Mucking [Essex] and Tilbury [Essex] about which the aforesaid Simon, tenant, puts himself on the grand assize of the lord king and asks that a recognizance be made about it whether she has greater right in that land or this Simon.” F. Palgrave (ed), Rotuli curiae regis [RotCR] 1 (Record Comm’n, London 1835) 198

11:Id.—Hugh de P. one of the four to choose the twelve: “These four knights, Hugh de Polstead, Laurence de ‘Plumberg’ Julian de ‘Lefteneston’, Robert de ‘Trindeia’, summoned to choose twelve knights to make a recognizance between Christopher de ‘Berking’ and Worthina de Hockley [Essex] about forty acres of land with its appurtenances in Hockley about which Worthina who is the tenant put herself on the grand assize of the lord king and asked for a recognizance [as to] who of them has greater right in that land, chose these: [six names given] A day is given to them at Greenwich and in the meantime let there be a view. The sheriff was ordered that he summon the knights to be present there at that time.” Id. 201.

For the process involved here, see Glanvill, p. IV–12 ff.

7. Christian Malford and Winterbourne Stoke:

3:M95—G. de M. owes one mark for right: “Geoffrey de ‘Maisi’ [? Mayfield, Sussex] owes one mark for right about four hides of land in Winterbourne [Winterbourne Stoke, Wilts]. And about a half a hide of land in Christian Malford [Wilts] against Hugh de Polstead.” Pipe Roll 7 Richard I.

4:P96—fine: G. de M. to hold of H. de P. “This is a final concord made in the court of the lord king at Westminster on the Saturday after the Invention of the Holy Cross in the seventh year of the reign of King Richard before H[ubert] archbishop of Canterbury, R[ichard fitz Neal] of London, G[ilbert Glanvill] of Rochester, bishops, H[enry] of Canterbury, R[alph ?Foliot] of Hereford, R[ichard Barre] of Ely, archdeacons, G[eoffrey] fitz Peter, William de Warenne, Ric[hard] de Herriard, Osbert fitz Hervey, Simon de Pattishall, Thomas de Hurstbourne and other barons and faithful of the lord king then present, between Hugh de Polstead demandant and Geoffrey de ‘Maisil’ tenant, about four hides of land with its appurtenances in Winterbourne and a half a hide of land with its appurtenances in Christian Malford which are of the fee of the abbot of Glastonbury about which there was a plea between them in the court of the lord king, to wit: that the same Hugh de Polstead granted to the aforesaid Geoffrey de ‘Maisil’ and his heirs all the aforesaid land with its appurtenances to hold of him and his heirs for the service of one knight. And for this grant and concord the aforesaid Geoffrey de ‘Maisil’ gave forty marks of silver to the aforementioned Hugh de Polstead and did him homage for the aforesaid land.” Feet of Fines, Richard I.

Final concords are the topic of book 8 of Glanvill, but version used here may be an invention of Hubert Walter, who was chief justiciar from 1193–1198.

6:M96—G. de M. pays his one mark. Pipe Roll, 8 Richard I.

8:P98—H. de P. appoints H. de P. attorney. “Somerset. Hugh de Polstead puts his son Hugh in his place against the court of Glastonbury to gain or lose.” Curia Regis Rolls (CRR) 1.

9:P98—Four members of the court of Glastonbury to bear the record. “A day is given to Gerard de ‘Brohton’, Richard son of Robert, Geoffrey de ‘Stawell’ and Hugh Travet who ought to bear record of the court of Glastonbury between Hugh de Polstead and Geoffrey ‘del Meisi’ on the octave of St. John [1 July], and let them come then and bear record, and let Geoffrey be summoned that he might be there then to hear that record.” CRR 1.

Glanvill p. IV–19 tells us that a process of tolt may bring a case from a lord’s court into the county court ‘for default of right’. From there a writ of pone will bring the case into the central royal court. Glanvill does not describe that, but it seems to have been totally standard from the time of the first plea rolls.

Tentative conclusion: Hugh tries to sell land to Geoffrey and gets into trouble because he has bypassed his lord’s court (the abbot of Glastonbury)

8. Burnham (somewhat abbreviated).

15:P99—? covenant. The record is badly damaged but it suggests that that one Walter de Grancurt and Hugh son of Hugh de Polstead are litigating about a covenant that has something to do with a woman named Juliana. Rotuli Curiae Regis 1.

16:M99—suggests that the writ is “to show why” (ostensurus quare) he made her a nun. “Hugh de Polstead [and Hugh his son essoin themselves] against Walter de Grancurt about a plea why he made his granddaughter a nun by Robert son of Adam.” Pleas before the King or his Justices 1.

The initial proceedings are not described in our extracts from Glanvill. Elsewhere he describes an action of covenant, which may be involved here. In entry 16 language is used that will later be found in the writ of trespass, but that does not appear formally until the middle of the 13th century. The archbishop of Canterbury, mentioned in entry 18, was Hubert Walter, who was also chief justiciar until 1198.

18:M99—Walter G. tells his story: “Walter de Grancurt complains that Hugh de Polstead, when Juliana his granddaughter and his heir was in the custody of the same Hugh by the lord of Canterbury and he before him and the other justices faithfully promised that he would not marry her without the assent of this Walter and of his progeny, he [Hugh] of his own will made her a nun unjustly. Hugh came and defended that she was never made a nun by him but he says that the steward of the count of Perche [Normandy], as is said, sent for her to his house, and he doesn’t know what he did with her. Walter says that this Hugh against the will of the same Juliana and while she was under age made her take up the habit of religion so that he might obtain the portion of the inheritance of this Juliana along with her first born sister whom he took to wife. Hugh proffered a charter of the count of Perche and of M[____] his countess which testified that they had given the same Hugh Avis the first-born with her inheritance and that this Juliana before this count and countess and many others asked if she could with their permission take up the habit of religion. And Walter says that this could not be because she never crossed [the Channel] nor spoke with the count or the countess. A day was given, one month after St. Hilary [13 February] to hear their judgment.” Rot CR 2.

20–24:HPM00—Juliana appears, suggesting that she is out of the convent; various essoins and constitutions of attorneys and the case fizzles out.

The five entries suggest that there are probably at least three lawsuits going on here: Walter (with Juliana) v. Hugh (father and son). Juliana v. Hugh and Avis. The count of Perche v. Walter (about the wardship ‘custody’). The plea rolls are virtually complete for the next six years, but nothing appears on them until:

39–41:P06—Hugh de P. wins a novel disseisin brought against him by William de G., but a case brought by William and his wife Juliana against him continues

40. “The assize comes to recognize if Hugh de Polstead unjustly and without judgment disseised William de Gimingham of his free tenement at Burnham within the assize. The jurors say that he did not disseise. Judgment. William is in mercy for a false claim.” CRR 4.

This is, of course, the famous assize of novel disseisin, described in Glanvill on p. IV-29 ff.

41. “Hugh de Polstead [and Avis his wife] essoin themselves [with regard to the matter] that is before the king against William de Gimingham and Juliana his wife about a plea of land”

45–6:P06—More of the story comes out; the parties have paid for a special jury to be taken on the question whether Walter de G. “intruded” himself on the land at the time of the death of Ascelina de Candos; the jury says that he did. The writ here is a variant of the assize of mort d’ancestor, described in Glanvill on p. IV–24 ff.

45. “Hugh de Polstead and Avis his wife by Hugh de ‘Ylleg’ demand against Walter de Grant Curt one carucate of land with its appurtenances in Burnham, of which Ascelina de Candos, whose daughter and heir the aforesaid Avis is, died seised as of her maritagium given by William de Grancurt and in which he intruded himself by force and arms while Ascelina lay in the infirmity of which she died, and he held it thus violently after her decease and by that intrusion he took from it chattels which were on that land to the value of twenty marks, and that Ascelina thus died seised of that land as of her maritagium and that Walter so intruded himself in that land he [sic] offers to deraign by consideration of the court. And Walter defends his right, and he says that Avis has a sister who is not named in the writ and therefore he does not wish to reply without her unless the court shall have considered, and since there was mention in the writ of intrusion and he does not know if the sister wanted to follow. It was considered that he reply because Hugh and Avis offer the lord king forty shillings for having a jury by lawful men [on the question] whether this Ascelina died seised of that land as of a maritagium given her by the aforesaid William and whether this William [?sic] intruded himself in that land by force and while she lay in the infirmity of which she died, or not, and the offering is received. And Walter offers forty shillings for the same . . . and let William de Gimingham [Norfolk] and Juliana his wife, the sister of the aforesaid Avis be summoned to come to follow the jury if they will. . . .” CRR 4.

In later law an “abator” was sometimes distinguished from an “intruder” in that the latter was a stranger who got onto the land after the ancestor had died and before the heir could take seisin, while the former was a relative who did the same thing. The distinction does not seem to be being made here.

46. “The jury comes to recognize if Ascelina de Candos, mother of Avis, wife of Hugh de Polstead, was seised on the day on which she died of one carucate of land with its appurtenances in Burnham as of her maritagium which was given to her by William de Grancurt, father of the aforesaid Ascelina, and if Walter de Grancurt with force and arms intruded himself on that land while this Ascelina was in her sickness of which she died and though that intrusion remained on that land after the decease of this Ascelina. The jurors say that William de Grancurt gave the aforesaid land to Hugh de Candos in maritagium with the aforesaid Ascelina, and she held that land as her maritagium all her life; and while she lay in her infirmity of which she died, fifteen days before her death Walter came with a multitude of people and put himself on that land and thus he held it from then to now. It was considered that Hugh de Polstead and Avis his wife and William de Gimmingham and Juliana his wife have seisin of that land of which Avis and Juliana are the heirs of this Ascelina. And Walter is in mercy.”

Maritagium took various forms, but the version involved here was probably a grant to a husband and his wife for their joint lives with a remainder for life in the survivor and the inheritance passing to the heirs of the marriage. The issue here may be whether the inheritance would pass to the children of the couple when they had only daughters or would return to the wife’s family from whence it had come.

49–52:TM06—Wm. and Juliana attempt to raise the ante by bringing an attain proceeding against the jury.

52. “A day is given to William de Gimmingham and Juliana his wife by their attorney and to Hugh de Polstead about a plea of rent and about a jury for convicting the twelve on the octave of St. Hilary by the request of the parties. And let it be known that all twenty-four are to be attached. And Hugh removed his attorney and wishes to prosecute in his own person.” CRR 4.

55:H07—the countess of Perche demands her court

55. “The countess of Perche demands her court by William ‘Pachche’ her bailiff on Thursday before the octave of St. Hilary [18 January] about the suit between William de Gimmingham and Juliana his wife demandants and Hugh de Polstead and Avis his wife tenants about land in Burnham.”

56–7, 59–63:HM07, P08—various essoins

66-70, ET08, P09—various proceedings leading to the compromise

71:P09—Compromise

Tentative conclusion: The marriage settlement goes awry because the lord’s arrangements for Juliana cannot be enforced after the break with Normandy in 1204.

All of this looks as if we’re talking about horizontal relationships, two sisters and their husbands squabbling. There are some hints of vertical relationships upward in the previous generation and involving the count of Perche, but nothing to suggest that anything is going on below the tenurial level of the litigants. That that is not true, however, is apparent when we come to no. 71. We’ll do that next time, if we don’t get to it this time.

No. 71: This is the final concord made in the court of the lord king at St. Edmunds two weeks after Easter in the 10th year of the reign of King John before [seven] itinerant justices, and other faithful men of the lord king there present, between William de Gimmingham and Juliana, his wife, demandants, by the same William placed in the place of the same Juliana for gain or for loss, and Hugh de Polstead and Avis, his wife, tenants, by Walter de Groten’, put in their place for taking the chirograph, about forty acres of land with its appurtenances in Burnham about which there was a plea between them in the aforesaid court, to wit: that the aforesaid Hugh and Avis recognize all the aforesaid land with its appurtenances to be the right of the same William and Juliana as Juliana’s reasonable part which comes to her of the free tenement which belonged to Hugh de Candos, father of the aforesaid Juliana and Avis, and of Ascelina, wife of the aforesaid Hugh, and they remitted and quitclaimed for themselves and their heirs to the aforesaid William and Juliana and the heirs of this Juliana forever. And be it known that the aforesaid William and Juliana and Hugh and Avis will divide the entire tenement among themselves which used to belong to the aforesaid Hugh and Ascelina, his wife, in Burnham and in [Burnham] Deepdale in the lands, services, rents, liberties and advowsons of churches, to wit: [tabulated below:]

Name	Amount	Service	Scutage	% in d	Other

Extrapolating from this to the entire holding, we get 28 free tenants, who contribute £1 7s 8d annually in service, and who are responsible for roughly 36% of any scutage levied (calculated by reducing the scutage figures to a common denominator and multiplying by 2, roughly 20%, and adding 2/5 of the kt's fee as a percentage of 2½ knights' fees, roughly 16%).

the entire croft which belonged to Ralph Hulloc;
half a rod of land and four feet at 'Harnesho' toward the west;	144 sq ft.

This adds up to roughly 35 separate parcels of land, which are probably to be added to the 40 acres, which, in turn, is probably half of the main demesne of the manor. Since so few acreages are given, estimates of total size are very dangerous, but we are probably dealing with roughly 200 to 400 acres of demesne.

half of the advowson of the church of St. Margaret Burnham; half of the advowson of the church of All Saints in the same vill;
half of the mill at the river with half of the liberty of the water and with all the other appurtenances of the same mill;
a quarter of the whole market of Burnham with a half of the other liberties pertaining to the aforesaid lands;
half of the entire mill at Winegot with half of the croft of the same mill toward the west;

half of the meadow and marsh on both sides of the water of same mill toward the north.

The advowsons of 2 churches, 2 mills, ½ a market, and some water rights.

Let it be known that the aforesaid William and Juliana granted to the aforesaid Hugh and Avis and the heirs of Avis, Hubert de Deepdale t & h and in exchange for this Hubert the aforesaid Hugh and Avis granted to the aforesaid William and Juliana, Reginald Cod t & h.

Furthermore let it be known that [if] the aforesaid two mills, which are of the same fee, should at any time fall down, by the default of William and Juliana, it shall be allowed to Hugh and Avis to repair the aforesaid mills out of the common of the aforesaid mills and [if] by the default of Hugh and Avis the aforesaid mills fall down, it shall be allowed to the aforesaid William and Juliana to repair the aforesaid mills out of the common profit of the aforesaid mills.

To have and to hold to this William and Juliana and the heirs of Juliana of the capital lords of this fee by the service which pertains to the aforesaid lands.” B. Dodwell (ed), Feet of Fines for the County of Norfolk, 1201–1215, PRS ns 32 (London 1958) 100–3, no 210.

MORE GLANVILL

A piece of Roman law: (1.3, p. IV–9):

“Pleas concerning baronies; pleas concerning advowsons of churches; the question of status; pleas of dower, when the woman has so far received none; complaints that fines made in the lord king’s court have not been observed; pleas concerning the doing of homage and the receiving of relief; purprestures; debts of laymen. All these pleas concern solely claims to the property (proprietas) in the disputed subject-matter: those pleas in which the claim is based on possession (possessio), and which are determine by recognitions, will be discussed later in their proper place”

1. Suppose your client claims a virgate of land in Puddle Parva in 1200. What more do you need to know and how would you go about suing for it?
 - a. Free vs. serf — this system is not available to the unfree. (See IV–9:)

“When anyone complains to the lord king or his justices concerning his fee or free tenement, and the case is such that it ought to be, or the lord king is willing that it should be, tried in the king’s court, then the complainant shall have the following writ of summons:”)

- b. Of whom do you claim to hold? Of whom does the tenant claim to hold?

2. We need one more piece from Glanvill before we try to solve the puzzle:

(12.6–7; p. IV–21): “These pleas,” Glanvill says speaking of the writ of right, “are tried in the courts of lords, or of those who stand in their place, in accordance with the reasonable customs of those courts, which cannot easily be written down because of their number and variety. Proof of default of right in these courts is made in the following way when the demandant complains to the sheriff in the county court and produces the writ from the lord king, the sheriff will, on a day appointed to the litigants by the lord of the court, send to that court one of his servants, so that he may hear and see, in the presence of four or more lawful knights of that county who will be there by command of the sheriff, the demandant’s proof that the court has made default of right to him in that plea; the demandant will prove this to be the case by his own oath and by the oath of two others who heard and understood it and who swear with him. With this formality, then, cases are transferred from certain courts to the county court, and are once again dealt with and determined there; and neither the lords of those courts nor their heirs may contest this or recover jurisdiction for their courts in respect of the particular plea.” This process known as tolt; In another place Glanvill tells us that once the case is in the county court either party may remove it to the central royal court by a writ known as pone (6.7, p. 61, Hall ed.).

3. What were these things originally?

a. Mort d’ancestor — look at the Assize of Northampton (pp. IV–4 to IV–5)

4. Item, if any freeholder has died, let his heirs remain possessed of such “seisin” as their father had of his fief on the day of his death; and let them have his chattels from which they may execute the dead man’s will. And afterwards let them seek out his lord and pay him a “relief” and the other things which they ought to pay him from the fief. And if the heir be under age, let the lord of the fief receive his homage and keep him in ward so long as he ought. Let the other lords, if there are several, likewise receive his homage, and let him render them what is due. And let the widow of the deceased have her dow[er] and that portion of his chattels which belongs to her. And should the lord of the fief deny the heirs of the deceased “seisin” of the said deceased which they claim, let the justices of the lord king thereupon cause an inquisition to be made by twelve lawful men as to what “seisin” the deceased held there on the day of his death. And according to the result of the inquest let restitution be made to his heirs. And if anyone shall do anything contrary to this and shall be convicted of it, let him remain at the king’s mercy.

b. Novel disseisin — look at the words:

The king to the sheriff, greeting. N. has complained to me that R. unjustly and without a judgment has disseised him of his free tenement in such-and-such a vill since my last voyage to Normandy. Therefore I command you that, if N. gives you security for prosecuting his claim, you are to see that the chattels which were taken from the tenement are restored to it, and that the tenement and the chattels remain in peace until the Sunday after Easter. And meanwhile you are to see that the tenement is viewed by twelve free and lawful men of the neighbourhood, and their names endorsed on this writ. And summon them by good summoners to be before me or my justices on the Sunday after Easter, ready to make the recognition. And summon R., or his bailiff if he himself cannot be found, on the security of gage and reliable sureties to be there then to hear the recognition. And have there the summoners, and this writ and the names of the sureties. Witness, etc.

c. Writ of right — must be the thing that makes the land heritable originally

d. If this is right then writs of entry, which are only hinted at in Glanvill, are a whole ‘nother story, for which I can give you just the barest outlines: They may be the product of a development like the following:

e. Novel disseisin means that the lord can no longer justice his tenants.

f. Glanvill 2.6: Special mise (p. 146–7): taking an issue away from the grand assize by allegation that the demandant is of the same blood as the tenant. If tenant admits it, the case is pleaded verbally and goes to battle. If tenant denies it, the case is pleaded verbally and goes to inquest. There are a lot of these early in John’s reign being used for claims like those that we looked at above, where the question was whether the tenant held in fee or gage or whether he held for a term of years that had expired.

- g. The distinction between upward looking claims and downward looking claims.
4. Unburdened with knowledge of Roman law, it seems relatively clear that what we are dealing with here originally is three types of claims that may be made against a lord. Burdened with a knowledge of Roman law we see them as dealing with ownership and possession. Glanvill hints at this and Bracton develops it to a fare thee well. But the writs of entry are a problem in this scheme and like so much else in history it's the last development that gives the clue to the whole puzzle.
