

People tend to fight back when threatened. So do human institutions. Sometimes they fight dirty, relaxing the constraints on behavior that constitute civilization. As part of his attempt to preserve the Union, Abraham Lincoln suspended the writ of habeas corpus and ignored the Supreme Court order that John Merryman receive his day in court. To create a pure environment for a pure Volk, the Nazis committed unspeakable atrocities. Today we have the War on Terror and legislation designed to relax civil liberties in the name of Patriotism. Can our country preserve liberty and security at the same time?

The Spring 2005 LLNE Meeting at Harvard Law School will explore this topic. I hope you will attend, enjoy, and benefit from what should be a stimulating day.

Welcome to Harvard !

Harry S. Martin III (Terry)
Henry N. Ess III Librarian &
Professor of Law
Harvard Law School

Program Schedule

8:30-10:00

Registration

Austin North
Austin Hall

10:00-10:15

Welcoming Remarks

Kim Dulin
Harvard Law School Library

10:15-11:15

International Responses to Terrorism

Panel Discussion

Ryan Goodman, Henry Steiner
& Noah Weisbord
Harvard Law School

11:15-11:30

Morning Break

11:30 - 12:30

Preserving Security and Democratic Freedoms in the War on Terrorism

Juliette Kayyem
John F. Kennedy School of Government
Harvard University

12:30-2:00

Buffet Lunch and LLNE Business Meeting

Ropes Gray Room
Pound Hall

2:00 - 3:00

Privileging Combat?
Contemporary Conflict and the Legal

Construction of War

Nathaniel Berman
Brooklyn University School of Law

3:00-3:15

Afternoon Break

3:15-4:00

Researching Terrorism

Annette Demers
Harvard Law School Library

Harvard's Nuremberg Trials Project

Paul Deschner
Harvard Law School Library

4:00-5:30

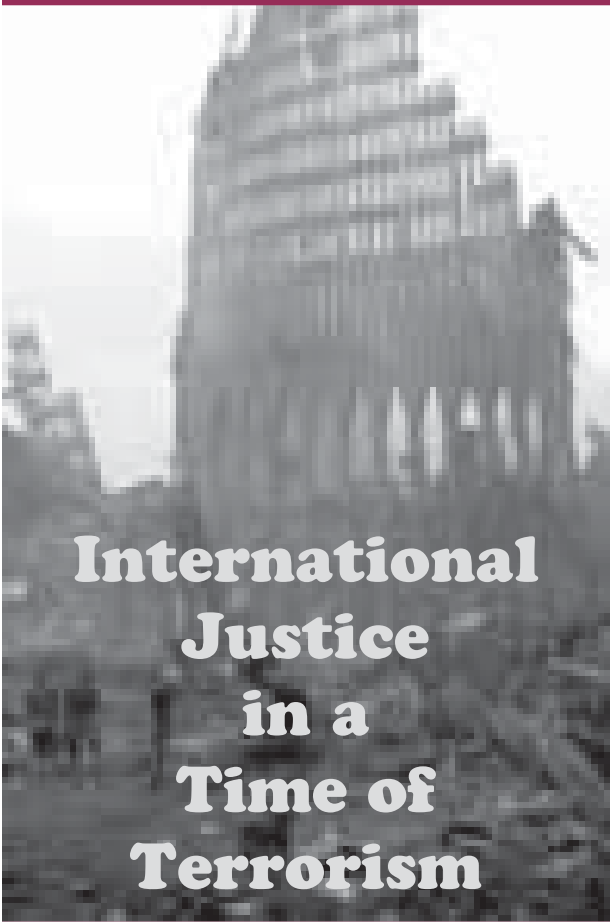

Reception

Caspersen Room
Harvard Law School Library
Langdell Hall

For directions, parking and hotel information see:
[http://www.law.harvard.edu/library/about/
LLNE_Spring_05](http://www.law.harvard.edu/library/about/LLNE_Spring_05)

LLNE Spring Meeting

April 1, 2005
Harvard Law School

Harvard Law School Library
1545 Massachusetts Avenue
Cambridge, MA 02138

For a fill-in, pdf version of this registration form go to:
http://www.law.harvard.edu/library/about/LLNE_Spring_05/index.php

Registration Form

Please make checks payable to LLNE in the amount of $85.00 and send to Jennifer Marccone, Harvard Law School Library, 1545 Massachusetts Avenue - Areeda 513, Cambridge, MA 02138

RSVP to Jennifer Marccone by March 15, 2005 at jmarccone@law.harvard.edu

Name _____

Institution _____

Email or Phone _____

Receipt Needed ? Yes No

Please let us know if you have any special needs.