

CCS Fellow

The Harvard Law School Environmental Law & Policy Clinic (ELPC) is inviting applications for a one or two-year research fellowship to work on set of projects involving the development of policy and legislation concerning carbon capture and sequestration, a technology for reducing carbon dioxide emissions to the atmosphere.

The fellow's responsibilities will include: research of domestic and international laws and policies; close analysis; drafting of white papers, proposed policy documents and proposed legislation; interaction with faculty, students and staff at the Harvard University Center on the Environment and the Kennedy School of Government; and presentations. The fellow will be part of the intellectual community at Harvard Law School and will have opportunities to attend and lead workshops and conferences.

Applicants for the fellowship must have a demonstrated knowledge of environmental law and policy. The ideal candidate will also have (a) working knowledge of climate change laws and policies; (b) at least some experience with policy development; and, (c) some background in engineering and/or geology. Applicants must possess outstanding academic credentials, as well as excellent research, writing and oral advocacy skills. Strong interpersonal skills are also required.

Applicants should submit resumes through http://jobs.harvard.edu/jobs/summ\_req?in\_post\_id=41215 (requisition # 36863).

Additionally, the following materials should be mailed to Jessica Cronin, Asst. Director for Recruitment, Harvard Law School, 1563 Massachusetts Ave, Pound Hall, Suite 501, Cambridge, Massachusetts, 02318 (or sent electronically to jcronin@law.harvard.edu). No phone calls please.

- A short statement (no more than 750 words) describing relevant experience;
- Resume;
- Writing sample (10 – 15 pages);
- List of at least three references; and
- Law school transcript (and transcripts from other graduate programs, if applicable).