

HARVARD TRADE UNION PROGRAM

104th Session

January 12th - February 20th 2015

“Preparing Leadership for the Challenges of the Future”

MISSION

Men and women who are active in the labor movement today face unprecedented change and profound challenges in providing leadership and advocacy for working people.

Dramatic changes in the world economy and the nature, size and composition of the workplace demand new approaches to organizing, bargaining and union administration.

Since 1942, the Harvard Trade Union Program has prepared union activists to meet the challenge of dynamic leadership within their unions and society. Today, the Program helps union leaders develop managerial and organizational skills, keener analytical and problem solving techniques as well as discover ways to deepen public understanding of the value and importance of labor unions.

THE PROGRAM

The Harvard Trade Union Program offers an intensive 6-week residential session for approximately 40 experienced union officials and senior staff. The Program provides participants with a unique opportunity to explore key issues for the labor movement in a rich academic and cultural environment away from the day to day pressures of work.

Participants will:

- Gain insights into the complex political, social and economic forces that shape their operating environment.
- Explore how strategic planning, organizational theory and problem solving can be applied in a union to assist leaders in understanding and managing change in their organizations.
- Exchange perspectives with faculty who are internationally recognized for their expertise on labor issues.
- Develop relationships among people doing similar work in the national and international labor communities.
- Interact with future leaders in the corporate and public sectors by attending classes at the country's most prestigious graduate schools of law, business, education and government.

CURRICULUM

Organized by an interdisciplinary team of Harvard faculty, the curriculum is built around a set of core courses supported by topical seminar series and other specially arranged programs.

The core curriculum is designed to give all participants a grounding in a common set of themes, issues and skills. We offer the following core courses:

- Strategic Planning for Unions
- Leadership and Organizational Change
- Union Governance and Administration
- Lessons from Labor History
- Dispute Resolution and Arbitration
- Public Sector Labor Relations

We also offer seminar series and individual presentations on issues and problems facing union leaders and the labor movement. These seminars enable participants to exchange perspectives and discuss strategies with some of the most talented and innovative practitioners and analysts in a particular area. Seminar topics include:

- Current Issues in Labor Law
- Labor and the Global Economy
- New Tactics for Union Organizing
- Press and Public Image of Unions
- Employee Ownership as a Union Strategy
- Unions and New Technology

THE FACULTY

Courses are taught by Harvard faculty and their invited guests. Most are active in the labor movement as labor lawyers, labor economists, arbitrators and consultants to unions.

In addition to providing an outstanding program faculty, the Harvard Trade Union Program arranges frequent visits from local, national, and international union leaders, representatives from the media, political parties and the business community.

ADMISSIONS

The Program's objective is to select a diverse group of students with the ability and potential for future leadership in the labor movement. Applicants to the program should have:

- Experience as an officer or staff member of a local, regional or national union.
- The ability to learn in an academic environment.
- Financial sponsorship from his or her union or other source.

Students are expected to be in residence for the full six week term of the Program. Applications will be processed on a rolling basis and candidates will be notified as they are accepted.

We encourage applications from diverse backgrounds, geographic regions and varieties of union experience. We are committed to the progress of women and minorities in the labor movement and encourage women and minority applicants.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Cambridge and Boston

A major attraction of the Program is its location on the Harvard campus in Cambridge, just across the Charles River from Boston. Participants may take advantage of an impressive array of cultural, social and athletic resources available at the University and its surrounding communities. New England is an area rich in labor history with a strong labor community.

Housing

Accommodations are provided for each participant in comfortable apartments convenient to the Harvard campus.

Privileges

Each participant has access to many of the University's facilities such as the library system and athletic complex.

Cost

Tuition, room, books and class materials.....$ 14,000.00

Additional expenses include transportation to and from Boston, meals, laundry, recreation and incidentals.

Many unions offer scholarships. Contact your union or us for further information.

Dates

The 104th Session of the Harvard Trade Union Program will run for six weeks beginning January 12th through February 20th, 2015.

FACULTY ADVISORY COMMITTEE

PROFESSOR BENJAMIN SACHS
Faculty Director, Trade Union Program,
Harvard Law School

PROFESSOR RICHARD FREEMAN
Faculty Director, Trade Union Program
Harvard University
Department of Economics

PROFESSOR PAUL WEILER
Faculty Director, Emeritus,
Trade Union Program,
Harvard Law School

PROFESSOR LINDA KABOOLIAN
Senior Research Fellow
Labor and Worklife Program
Harvard Law School

PROFESSOR THOMAS KOCHAN
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

PROFESSOR RICHARD MURNANE
Graduate School of Education

DR. ELAINE BERNARD, Executive Director
Labor and Worklife Program

For Further Information

LABOR AND WORKLIFE PROGRAM AT HARVARD LAW SCHOOL

Harvard Trade Union Program
125 Mt. Auburn Street, 3rd Floor
Cambridge, MA 02138 USA
(617) 495-9265
Fax (617) 496-7359
email: Lbaptist@law.harvard.edu
<http://www.law.harvard.edu/programs/lwp>